Haliburton businessmen form own association in village

HALIBURTON — Last Wednesday evening at the Senior Elementary School, 35 business people from the village formed their own businessmen's association. This brings the number to two in the county, as Minden formed their association early last spring.

Before the meeting actually got started, the 35 people present were split into three groups to discuss three different issues. One group discussed whether a businessmen's association was a good idea for Haliburton, a second group, municipal relations and the third group discussed the possible involvement in the business improvement area (BIA).

After the three subjects were thoroughly looked into, by the business people they then unanimously approved the formation of the association.

A steering committee was elected consisting of Mike Easton of Haliburton Red and White, Grant Rae of the former Dominion Hardware store, Vince Conaghan of Stedman's, Doug Moore of Newbatt's Furniture and Appliances and Paulette Blake of Paulette's Antiques and Gifts. These people will now get together later this month and appoint a chairman and secretary-treasurer from the group.

The first project of the association will be to meet with the municipality to discuss some of the concerns brought out at this inaugural meeting.

Mr. Bob Stinson, manager of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce, was a guest of the businessmen, and told the gathering that the Chamber would stand behind the association 100% in both Minden and Haliburton. "We will give our full support to both these organizations, said Mr. Stinson."

Maynooth jewellers ring now travelling with Int. Agency

A diamond engagement ring, shown above, designed by local jeweller Boguslaw Mosielski of the Silver Owl Studio at Maynooth Station has been given the prestige of travelling with the international collection. Several award-winning Diamonds Today pieces from across the world will be touring selected retailers throughout the United States for a period of one year. The jewellery, was selected from designers in Italy, Spain, United States Japan and Canada. Pieces by two other Canadians were chosen beside this 64 carat ring of Mosielski. A similar ring was presented on behalf of the citizens of Bancroft to Mr. Jack Gordon when he retired from the position of clerk of the Village of Bancroft.

Golden Age-Pewee tourney was held on Saturday

CARNARVON — Last Saturday these YBC youngsters (all under 10) teamed up with bowlers from the Golden Age league for a pins over average tournament. As you can see by the expressions these young bowlers take their sport seriously. Top left, Derek Allison 8, shows his form with the between-the-legs style while the young lady lower photo Tammy Masters 7, appears to be saying there's nothing to it. Top right, Robbie Boyes 8, who is trying to remember all the techniques in delivering the ball. For complete results turn to the sports section.

Harrison, McKnight receive OPP Citations for bravery

MINDEN — Auxiliary OPP Constable Jim Harrison of RR 1, Haliburton and Darlene McKnight of Riverside Drive, Haliburton, received St. John's Ambulance Awards for the rescue of two children from drowning in an OPP presentation by Commissioner Harold Graham in Peterborough last Monday.

According to police, on August 25, 1977 at the Silver Sand Tent and Trailer Park near Huntsville, two children, Kevin Burnett age 9 and Sue Burnett age 12 attempted to walk across the narrows on the Big East River. Kevin either slipped or walked into the deep portion of the narrows grabbing his sister in the process. Both children began thrashing and screaming and went under the water at least once. Jim Harrison was on the east shore and Darlene McKnight on the west. Upon seeing the plight of the children, both people jumped into the water and rescued them.

Mr. Harrison is a member of the OPP Auxiliary in Peterborough and both families were camping at the trailer park but were unaware of each others presence. Jim Harrison is only a partial swimmer and has little desire to enter any swimming area, however, as a result of their quick action the lives of both children were saved.

Darlene McKnight and Jim Harrison above, were presented with citations recently when they both rescued two children who were in trouble in the Big East River near Huntsville. The children had lost their footing in the water and had gone under when they were pulled to safety. See story page 1.

Icy conditions mar road travel for some drivers

MINDEN — Despite the very slippery road conditions last week as the result of winters first snowfall in our area, Minden OPP had only two major accidents to report.

The two collisions resulted in one charge of unsafe lane change and damages totalling $4,500 to four vehicles.

Early Wednesday afternoon on Hwy. 35 on the four lane bypass, a collision occurred between two trucks. Wilbert Anderson 35, of Bobcaygeon was northbound in the passing lane of the bypass when he turned his 1976 truck into the driving lane and struck a 1972 dump truck driven by Keith Rowden 25, of RR 1, Haliburton. The Rowden truck left the road and rolled onto its side.

Police have charged Anderson with unsafe lane change as a result of the collision. The Rowden dump truck suffered $3000 in damages while the Anderson truck was set at $400.— PC Barry Connelly.

At 2:45 pm on Thursday afternoon on Hwy. 121 west of Haliburton two cars went out of control and $1100 in damages were incurred.

John Craig 64, of Lochlin, had been northbound on 121 when he lost control and entered the east ditch where the car became stuck. He then left to get a tow truck and in the meantime a 1977 car driven by Stephen Thorlakson, also northbound, went out of control at the same spot, entered the east ditch and struck the Craig vehicle. Craig's car received $500 in damages while OPP have set the Thorlakson vehicles damage at $600.

Overhead flashing light for Carnarvon intersection in 79

MINDEN — On Wednesday, a letter was read in Anson, Hindon and Minden council from the Ministry of Transportation and Communications, that an overhead beacon will be installed sometime during 1979 at the intersections of Hwy. 35 and County Road 1 at Carnarvon.

Mr. James Snow, Minister of MTC, stated "I am pleased to inform council that an overhead flashing beacon will be installed at the intersection as soon as arrangements can be made."

Mr. Snow went on to say that in addition, a portion of the guide rails on 35, south of the intersection, will be removed providing motorists on County Road 1 with a better view of northbound traffic on Hwy. 35 approaching the intersection.

Also planned by the MTC are improvements to the existing signs which will assist motorists entering the four corners from all approaches.

Think small

by Jim Smith

Disastrous Consequences

Few roles in life are harder to play than that of the small-c conservative. Liberals, after all, monopolize the opportunities to appear as nice folks, concerned about the defenceless in society. Conservatives can only take comfort from their pragmatism. (Small-c conservatives and small-l liberals are not related to Conservative or Liberal Party politics.)

For the most part, liberals and conservatives tend to fall into logically consistent camps. Academics and other government employees naturally support expansion of the public sector. The business community — and the smaller businessman in particular — must live with the higher costs created by too much government; naturally there's little sympathy for the liberal point of view in that quarter.

When a noted academic — one with a reputation for liberal inclinations — breaks ranks and adopts a conservative philosophy, therefore, heads turn. Right now, heads are turning in Quebec where Pierre Fortin, an associate professor of economics at the University of Laval, has just come out in opposition to the minimum wage, an approach on the same level as Menachem Begin nominating Yasser Arafat for Man of the Year.

Prof. Fortin didn't set out to denigrate the minimum wage. Rather, he was hired by the Quebec government to study the impact that province's high minimum wages were having on employment there. By the time he had finished studying the subject, however, the man who describes himself as "a social democrat" was balking at the prospect of raising the floor on wage rates.

"In spite of our prejudice in favour of a better distribution of revenues in Quebec society," the Fortin report noted, "we wanted to remain neutral regarding the means to attain this objective. However, as the work progressed, it became more and more obvious that judgment to be borne on the relatively high minimum wages in Quebec ($3.27), compared with $2.65 in Ontario and the United States, has to be severe." Fortin estimates that between 25,000 and 42,000 Quebecers are currently without jobs because the minimum wage is too high. Moreover, companies have been reducing work weeks with the result that workers who remain employed actually end up earning lower total incomes.

The problem isn't entirely with the minimum wage itself, Fortin found. When the minimum wage rises, however, workers at higher wages also demand more and a chain reaction sets in.

Predictably, organized labour in Quebec has expressed displeasure with Fortin's conclusions. The provincial government, however, has taken the advice to heart and plans to bring Quebec's minimum wage in line with Ontario and American levels within the next three to five years.

For the professor, it's all been an illuminating, albeit disconcerting, experience. For the business community, though, Fortin has merely verified what management already knew. Many liberal policies turn good intentions into disastrous consequences.

AHM council gets assurance that dumpsite is adequate

MINDEN — The Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden were given assurance in a letter from the Ministry of the Environment last week that the present waste disposal site on the Scotch Line Road has been approved by the ministry as adequate, providing the present good housekeeping operation is continued.

In the letter from Harry Parrott, DDS, he states that it was agreed that depending on the good housekeeping and operation at the existing site, it would be advisable to continue with the existing facilities rather than attempt to select a new site. Mr. Parrott went on to say in his letter that it was further agreed by the ministry that there would be no additional constraints on future subdivisions in relationship to the waste site and that the municipality would make every effort to operate the site to protect the environment.

Haliburton economic study

TORONTO — The Provincial Treasurer, the Honourable Frank S. Miller, has directed staff in his Ministry to undertake an economic development study of Haliburton County. The Treasurer's announcement is in response to a request by County Warden Keith Tallman for an investigation into development prospects in the County.

The upcoming study will analyze economic trends in Haliburton, present an assessment of current and future potential investment and employment opportunities, and investigate a number of more promising specific areas for further action. The exercise will focus on the resource, tourism and recreation sectors, the backbones of the Haliburton economy.

The study, to commence after further discussion with county council, is expected to take several months.

COTA appoints new manager

Last Wednesday the board of directors of the Central Ontario Travel Association (COTA) appointed their new manager.

Mr. Aldo Campagnola has been the manager of the James Bay Frontier Travel Association for the last three years and brings ample experience to his new position with COTA. He officially takes over his new post on January 1, 1979.

The COTA board is very enthusiastic over the appointment of Mr. Campagnola, as is Haliburton's Chamber manager, Bob Stinson. The HHCC look forward to a better working relation with COTA and their new manager, then we have had in the past, Mr. Stinson told The Express.

MP Bill Scott to pursue vandalism penalties

Victoria-Haliburton MP Bill Scott is annoyed at all the "buck-passing" in regards to the penalties for vandalism in the Province.

The following is an extract from Hansard, official publication of the House of Commons and reads as follows:

Bill Scott: Mr. Spetaker, my question is for the Minister of Justice. It has to do with a petition circulated recently by the town of Trenton regarding vandalism: it was circulated to all municipalities in Ont.

In the light of this petition, which requests that the federal-provincial authorities meet with municipal officials to discuss a change in the law, imposing heavier penalties and restitution in vandalism cases, would the minister tell us whether he plans any such action?

Otto Lang: I would ordinarily be very happy to raise this question with provincial attorneys general, but I would expect the initiative to come from them if they are dissatisfied with enforcement provisions which apply to any section of the criminal code.

Bill Scott: Acts of wanton destruction and senseless vandalism are increasing at a frightening rate. Since it appears that the present laws are an ineffective deterrent to these crimes, can the minister explain his reluctance to take positive action in this area?

Otto Lang: There is no reluctance on my part. I indicated I would be very happy to consult with the attorneys general on this question, but if their feelings agree with that expressed by the member, obviously they would have brought the matter to my attention before this.

Timekeeper:

Your heart works harder when you're not in the game. Get fit—and turn the clock back.

Thinking Slim

BY JEAN NIDETCH

Do you talk to yourself? It's all right to say yes. We all do, even when we're not fully aware of it.

We're constantly telling ourselves, yes, I can do such and such, or no, I can't. And often, it's the telling that keeps us from the doing!

Well, you may say, who knows better than you? Ah, there's the question. And that's where talking to yourself comes in, my friend, especially when it comes to weight control.

If you do it my way, no one will come after you with a net and I can almost guarantee that with persistence and practice, you'll have those pounds falling off like autumn leaves.

Let's take peanuts, for instance, and let's say that they're the one snack you think you simply can't resist.

Now, you find yourself at a get-together and everywhere you look, it seems, you see peanuts! You may as well give in, you tell yourself, because you know you can't resist them.

What you're really saying is not "I can't resist them," you're saying "I won't resist them." Recognize this and simply turn the other way and say, "I certainly can and will resist peanuts." Chances are you will.

So you turn your back on them and satisfy your "appetite" with a low-calorie soft drink or a cup of coffee, determined that, beckon as they may, those peanuts aren't going to get the best of you.

It may not succeed the first couple of times you try. It isn't easy to combat "what's the use" thinking because, for most of us, it has become a comfortable habit.

And you know what habits are like — half the time we're not even aware of them.

Peanuts, in a way, are easier to deal with because they're tangible. Negative thoughts are sneaky so you have to keep an "ear" out for them. (And you can.)

The next time you hear yourself saying, I "can't" or "never can" do such and such, stop yourself right there. Reverse that thought into its positive side and repeat to yourself, I "can" do such and such; I "will" do this or that.

If you give yourself enough positive messages over a long enough period of time (start by making a positive self-statement every time you look at your watch, for instance), that will become a comfortable habit, too.

And one you won't have to worry about getting rid of!

Which One is the Drop-out?

All of them. Ten million Americans have high blood pressure but dropped out of treatment. High blood pressure can't be cured but it can be controlled. If you need medication, take it daily.

Phillips, Osler lead Colt 45 open rollofs after 10 games

BANCROFT — In conditions that were more conducive to playing hockey than bowling on the weekend, due to a furnace malfunction, Bill Phillips of Bancroft and Kay Osler of Fenelon lead the Carling Colt 45 roll-offs after the first ten game block. The second block will go at Carnarvon Lanes on Sunday, Dec. 10th.

The frigid conditions of the lanes during the roll-offs had a decided effect on the pinfall. If one was to compare the first block scores with that rolled last year, it shows that the leader in the men's division is almost 200 pins less this year. After ten games Steve Barton of Fenelon led with a total of 2611. However, this year Phillips total reads 2438, not exactly a sprakling performance for a 270 average bowler.

At the ladies score last year you find that Audrey Gerris of Fenelon was leading with 2345. Mrs. Osler however leads this year with 2366, so how do you figure it. In her 2366 total, Kay rolled two fine 300 games of 346 and 307 to help her to this year's lead. Bill Phillips came through with the top single of the day, 359 while Carnarvon's Ron Robinson Sr. posted a 353 on the scoreboard.

Here are the top 10 bowlers after ten games:

Bill Phillips, Ban.	2438	Kay Osler, Fen.	2366
Hank Searle, Ban.	2393	Shirley Wilson, F.	2118
Jack Williams, Ban.	2371	Beth Telford, Fen.	1963
Bill Korz, Fen.	2285	Eva Piper, Car.	1910
Cecil Watson, Fen.	2274	Audrey Gerris, Fen.	1906
Gord McAllister, F.	2266	Flo Henderson, Car.	1893
Will Goodinan, Ban.	2254	Eva Kirkham, Ban.	1887
Steve Barton, Fen.	2190	Marg Tretheway, F.	1846
Ronnie Robinson, C.	2171	Joan Deyell, Fen.	1819
Roy Sutherland, B.	2166	Judy Lawson, Ban.	1808

After 20 games are played the Carling Colt 45 contingent will consist of the top ten men and top nine ladies who will travel to Hamilton in April to represent 1000 Lakes.

Eight-year-old baseball fans think nothing of wading through heaps of statistics created by their favorite players.

Real whiz kids already have memorized the numbers for 1978: Dave Parker batted .334; Jim Rice whacked 46 homers; Ron Guidry posted a 25-3 record.

Yet many of these experts on baseball have trouble learning routine arithmetic in elementary schools.

Math Baseball, a game developed by the New York-based St. Regis Paper Company, is helping to bridge the gap, suggests Monte Irvin, 59, the Hall of Famer serving as an unofficial "commissioner" for the instructional play.

"I hope it catches on in every corner of the United States," says Irvin. "It's a great way to learn."

Math Baseball, created by two Nashville, Tenn., teachers, uses flashcards to develop basic skills. A "batter" gets anything from a single to a home run for a correct answer to simple problems.

Notes Irvin: "Math Baseball works because it makes learning fun. It ties together two things most kids love — baseball and competition."

In 1977, more than 4,000 elementary schools used Math Baseball and 500 boys and girls in New York participated in a summer "Series" sponsored by St. Regis and the Police Athletic League.

Last summer, the Boys Clubs in Los Angeles and the YMCA's in Atlanta and Houston backed new Math Baseball championships.

The main thing is just getting the kids interested," stresses Irvin, a full-time aide to Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

Although the game isn't endorsed by major league baseball, other Math Baseball "commissioners" include Tom Lasorda, Phil Niekro and Ken Forsch.

Irvin, a Negro star long before his 1949-55 stint with the New York Giants, credits two big league old-timers for inspiring him during a personal appearance when he was a schoolboy in Orange, N.J.

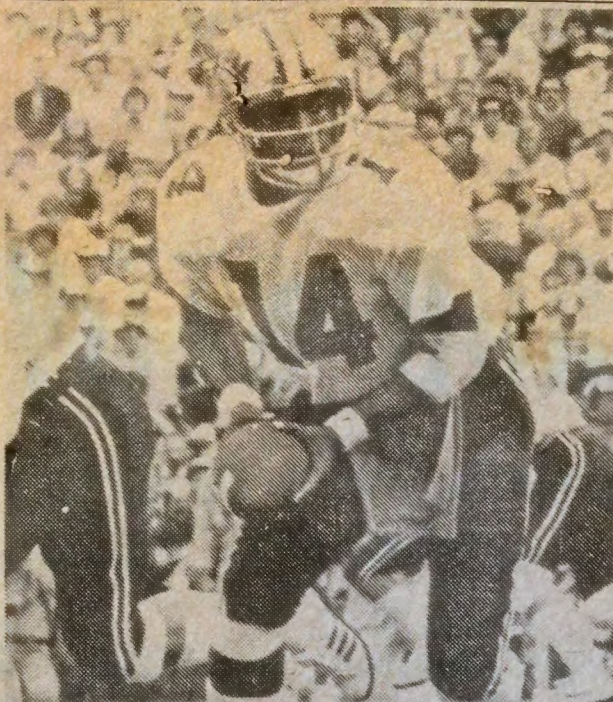

Says Irvin: "Lefty Grove told us, 'If you're going to do something do it right.' And Jimmie Foxx said, 'If you develop your mind, all the rest will follow.'"

BROOMBALL ACTION

with SPUTNIK

There just about wasn't any Tuesday night action this week. Repairs to the arena's ice-making machine were completed by 4 pm so everything went ahead as scheduled.

At 8 pm the Horseshoe Lakers and Alton Movers were at it again. The Movers walked away with a 2-0 score. Bill Hogg and Bob Sisson getting the goals.

At 9 pm everyone was treated to watching a well matched cleanly played game between Prentice's Mothertruckers and the Jets, with the Mothertruckers winning 1-0 on a goal by Terry Brown assisted by George Crofts.

See you next week when the Movers tangle with the Jets at 8 pm. The Mothertruckers then take to the ice at 9 pm against the Lakers.

TRI COUNTY HOCKEY

Fenelon ends TC midgets winning streak at 5 games

MINDEN — Fenelon Falls Tri County Midgets came into Minden on Sunday evening and stopped the red-hot midgets winning streak at five games. The Fenelon bunch fell behind 2-1 in the second period but scored three times in the third to take the victory.

Fenelon opened up a 1-0 lead in the first period however, Greg Carpenter scored an unassisted goal early in the second to tie the contest. Then Jim Hart took a pas from Joey Graham and beat the Fenelon netminder from close range to give Minden the lead 2-1 at the end of two.

Fenelon came back and tied the game early in the third but Joey Graham restored Minden's lead a short time later on a nifty play by Greg Carpenter.

The midget now sport a record of five wins and one loss, good enough for top spot in the standings. Next game is in Millbrook on Thursday evening and then at home on Sunday against Cannington.

Canadian Comment

BY PETER WARD

OTTAWA (SF) — As Canadians move into the long, hard winter, the most pressing issue facing politicians on Parliament Hill is not the renewed energy of inflation and unemployment; it has to do with the leadership of the Liberal Party.

Efforts of the government to correct the performance of the economic statistics which hammer the daily life of many Canadians appear motivated more by concern over political survival than by desires to offer good government, and frankly, it's in the interests of the opposition if the economy stays bleak until after the coming federal election.

Those by-elections in mid-October really shook the Liberals. They still think they can win with John Turner as leader, despite some opposition statements about the regime of Turner as finance minister being largely responsible for today's mess. The question is, will Pierre Elliott Trudeau be the first Canadian prime minister to resign as head of the government under pressure from his party?

The answer, if you assess Trudeau's character, has to be a resounding no. Resignation by the PM would amount to a public admission by him that he fears Joe Clark in the coming election, and that's hardly within Trudeau's capability. Besides, the Liberals have had several recent demonstrations of Mr. Trudeau's prowess as a street fighter politician.

He's good. Maybe the best Canada has ever seen. He may delight in polarizing issues and behave like a gun fighter with personal attacks, but he sure attracts attention. He may not leave the audiences convinced, but he sure wins debates in the Jesuitical style.

If the PM and his advisors run true to style, we're going to see a mammoth selling program aimed at convincing Canadians the government policies have been right. Every time the Trudeau Liberals have been in trouble the reaction has been the same — it's not the policies which are wrong, they just haven't been sold strongly enough.

Remember, too, that Mr. Trudeau's advisors are not likely to suggest he leave, when his departure would mean replacing all the advisors. There may be much more difficulty for the Liberals in collecting campaign funds these days, and in convincing attractive potential candidates to run on the Liberal ticket, but that doesn't mean the PM will quit.

The only man I can think of who might be able to sell Trudeau on stepping down is Marc Lalonde, and he's still a Trudeau loyalist.

Ask Alma

Dear Alma:

I read your column about the hubby who is rude to his wife. When I read that story, it sounded just like my ex-husband and me.

I wasn't allowed to talk to the neighbors or make telephone calls. I couldn't speak to an old friend or go see anyone without my ex always asking if I was sleeping with him. I have three older sons by another marriage and my ex-husband was always mean to them. Between us we had one son and after he was born, my ex-husband turned against my other kids. I went to Legal Aid but they couldn't help me because my ex-husband made too much money even though he wasn't giving any to me or buying any groceries for the house.

We were married for seven and a half years. Like that lady who wrote to you, I didn't have the money or a job either, but I borrowed from my brother and got my divorce.

It is hard on me sometimes, but I would never go back to my ex-husband. I feel like I have just gotten out of prison. I feel free!

My kids like it better since he has gone. My nerves have improved and I have lost over 50 pounds. Now I go out any time I want and come home without being cross-examined.

I would really like to write to that lady in Wisconsin and tell her my story and that somehow she must find a way to get rid of him. — S.F., Illinois.

Dear S.F.:

Thank you for sharing your story. When our gal in Wisconsin reads your letter I'm sure it will help her make her courageous decision. Good luck to both of you!

Dear Alma:

Why isn't the victor of a gubernatorial race called a "gubernator" rather than a governor? — Curious

Dear Curious:

Don't know. Usually he's called a lot of other things, too, especially by the opponent.

These cereal-coated apple rings can be served with fried ham, bacon or sausage.

CRUNCHY COATED APPLES RING IN THE NEW DAY

Everyone needs a nourishing breakfast to carry them through the morning's activities until lunchtime. In the morning, the body has gone without nourishment for the longest time during the 24-hour period.

Without breakfast, the system slows down and becomes sluggish so that one becomes tired and listless and unable to function at their best.

A universally popular breakfast food such as corn flakes cereal doesn't always have to be served in a cereal bowl.

Here we have crushed the cereal and combined it with a few other ingredients to make a coating batter for dipping apple slices for frying. The Crunchy Apple Rings are served with a dusting of powdered sugar or syrup after frying to a golden brown. Accompany with fried ham, bacon or sausage and a favorite morning beverage.

CRUNCHY APPLE RINGS

1/2 cup regular all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder

1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
1/8 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1 egg, separated
2 tablespoons sugar
1/3 cup milk
2 apples, cored and sliced into thin rings
4 cups Kellogg's Corn Flakes cereal, crushed to measure 1 1/4 cups

Vegetable oil (for frying)
Confectioners' sugar

Stir together flour, baking powder, salt and spices. Set aside.

In small bowl, beat egg white until foamy. Add sugar. Beat until stiff but not dry. Set aside.

In a second small bowl, beat egg yolk with milk. Mix in dry ingredients. Fold in beaten egg white.

Dip apple rings in batter. Coat with crushed cereal. Fry in 1/4 inch of oil at 385°F turning once, about 1 minute on each side. Drain on absorbent paper. Dust with confectioners' sugar. Serve immediately plain or with maple syrup.

Yield: about 24 rings

TV PARADE

HI TONY — Tony Lo Bianco is a lucky actor and he knows it. He says he has reached a point in his career where he doesn't have to do something if he doesn't feel it is meaningful. Aside from his movie "Bloodbrothers," now in release, Tony has two movies-for-TV completed. Neither has an air date as yet. One, "A Cry For Help," for ABC-TV, deals with the delicate subject of teen-age suicide. He plays a psychiatrist.

"I wasn't aware that suicide is the second largest cause of death of teens until I got into this picture. Accidents are number one, but as my character says, we're not sure how many of those accidents are suicides." He says it is a delicate subject, a two-edged sword and the script was gone over very carefully by a psychiatrist. Tony says they didn't want to blame parents for teens' suicides and they also couldn't have all the responsibility on the teen. "I had one line in the script that said in effect, 'Well, he did it because ...' and I said I wouldn't say that because there shouldn't be an excuse. The psychiatrist then said he was surprised that, in going over the script, he had missed that line."

HI TONY, TOO — In his other TV movie, this one for CBS, he plays an ice skating coach to a young girl who always puts herself down. It's not until she meets an upbeat young man, who transfers some of his confidence to her, that she learns the value of a positive approach to her own life. Right now, this show is called "Champions: A Love Story" but Tony says the title will probably be changed.

CARNARVON NEWS

by Yvonne Penney

By the time this is printed, winter will have arrived. As I'm writing, the forecaster on the radio is talking about the white stuff falling in the Barrie and Toronto areas.

Jim and Pearl Foster, Eleanor and Bob Patton and Richard and Dorothy Kinsmen arrived home Saturday from Jamaica looking tanned and beautiful. Apparently, a good time was had by all. Dorothy and Richard stopped off in Toronto to attend the Grey Cup game.

Stanhope Township employees and their spouses enjoyed a roast beef dinner Saturday night at the firehall. This was their Christmas dinner and was catered by Carnarvon UCW ladies. Three very attractive young high school girls helped serve dinner and caught the eye of a camera nut who was in attendance. Rumour has it that one person ate three pieces of pie.

Violet Wallace is in Peterborough Civic Hospital undergoing tests. Our best wishes and our prayers are with Vi and we wish her a speedy recovery.

Our prayers are also with the family of the late Clarence Horsley. Life must go on for the rest of us and we are better people for having known him.

I didn't think there was anyone around who hadn't eaten venison. I found such a young lady last week. Don and Ellen Holden as well as Paul, Mary, Jane and Krista came along on Sunday to enjoy some "deer" meat with us. Don hails from Toronto and says he really enjoys our northern hospitality.

There was a good turn out of parents at HHSS last week for "Meet The Teachers" night. It is very encouraging to meet your son or daughter's teachers face to face as they are a great influence in a teenagers' life.

The meeting for children with LD which was scheduled for last week in Wilberforce was cancelled due to the weather. It will be rescheduled in the near future.

A community potluck dinner is the coming event next Sunday at the C. E. Building of Zion United Church in Carnarvon. Come along and bring a friend or neighbour. The time is Dec. 3rd at 5:30. Marilyn Stouffer will be in attendance to lead us in a carol sing after dinner.

Don't forget our Christmas UCW meeting slated for December 7th at 7:00 pm. This is a fellowship time and each church is asked to participate in the program.

Last week while waiting in the doctor's office in Minden, I picked up a booklet to read. It was printed by Alcoholics' Anonymous and made interesting reading. Those steps must be hard to take and anyone who has taken them is to be congratulated.

Dorothy Finch was the lucky winner of the afghan which was the prize in the raffle at Hyland Crest last week at their bazaar.

Don't forget this Saturday at Maple Lake Church Christmas bazaar.

Samantha READS YOUR STARS

If you were born this week: You thrive on activity. Because you have so many varied interests, you can talk with some authority on almost any subject. You enjoy being around people who stimulate you. You are an animal lover. You like to read and you're always ready to accept a new challenge.

ARIES (3-21/4-19): Harebrained scheme is apt to be placed invitingly on your path.
Aries. Be careful not to trip over it. This week's new moon is a fine time to renew contacts you've lost track of.
Later, the gauntlet is thrown down, and you'd be wise to pick it up. Finally, it's boogie time.

TAURUS (4-20/5-20): Joint ventures are the cornerstone of your week. Taurus. And for them to be successful, different perspectives and viewpoints will need to be respected by all concerned.
Including you, baby — be flexible and tolerant.

GEMINI (5-21/6-20): Old associate enters your life again.
You're intrigued, but to what degree will you become involved? I'll leave that meaty question up to you, Gem.
Later, have your data sheets ready; you're dealing with one who wants just the facts, ma'am. Week closes on an unusual note.

MOONCHILD (6-21/7-22):
New project has several kinks. Not to worry. Moon-baby; they'll straighten out in time. By the way, proper diet and plenty of rest are important. Try not to burn the candle at both ends. Week ends with a kiss.

LEO (7-23/8-22): The spotlight is on love this week, Leo. If you are going to think with your emotions instead of your head, take off your rose-colored glasses once in a while to check the validity of what you see. Or of what you think you see. Days float to mystifying (but satisfying!)
fini.

VIRGO (8-23/9-22): Home is the center of your activity.
With the instigations of the new moon, a busy center it is.
Expect lots of company, a mild water problem and try adding a foreign flavor to some of your cooking and redecorating. Quite an interesting potpourri, Virgo.

LIBRA (9-23/10-23): Catch up on correspondence and run errands. Try not to make too many purchases, though, because your take-back quotient is still higher than normal. Tongues are wagging this week, too, but since they're just putting out a lot of hot air, don't waste your time listening. Libby. Save time for love.

SCORPIO (10-24/11-22):
Guard your resources. Scorp.
You're too smart to fall for buying the Brooklyn Bridge, but on the other hand, sky hooks have always captured your fancy. See message to Aries. Later, a bit of news and a problem to solve.

SAGITTARIUS (11-23/12-21): Begin making headway on personal plans this week, Sag.
You can put some into effect now; others will need to wait a bit. Also, my pet, watch your mouth, or you'll have quite a lot of explaining to do.
Days close with news.

CAPRICORN (12-22/1-19):
Words exchanged in confidence may create some problems. Avoid corners and closets, Cappy. Then, you have a decision to make, and you're making the process much more difficult than it should be. Relax and don't worry about it. Week comes to monied conclusion.

AQUARIUS (1-20/2-19): A social gathering may be canceled; but if it is, Aquari, just get together your own impromptu party. New friends and old ones blend nicely.
Then, grab some quiet time to refuel your fires. Days shimmy to happy fini.

PISCES (2-20/3-20): You are your own best counselor in week ahead, Pisces. So listen and follow that sage advice.
Plan an outing with friends for midweek and do try to attend a certain meeting. Latter days find you with a secret smile.
